

The following list is a compilation of resources for world language teachers and parents. This list was curated by the Department's World Languages team in collaboration with the Nebraska Department of Education. If you would like to add to the list, please email your suggestions to Language.Acquisition@la.gov. For additional information please see the Department's World Language webpage.

The Louisiana Department of Education takes student privacy and security seriously. Both are important considerations when using any online service, including those provided in this document. School systems should take this into consideration and parents should use discretion when selecting resources. School systems should refer to the Privacy and Security Guide when making decisions regarding distance learning.

WL CHOICE BOARD

Choice Boards allow students to select activities according to their interests and available resources. The activities included here were intentionally created to be non-language specific so that they might apply to students of multiple languages. This resource is ready to use as is, but feel free to edit and customize to fit your students' needs and interests.

Use Google Maps or Google Earth to design an itinerary for your family in a city where the language you are studying is spoken.	Watch a movie on a streaming service or on a DVD. Set the language and captions to the language you are studying.	Research traditional dances from a target culture. Learn one and teach it to a friend or family member. Make a video presentation to share with your teacher.	Listen to a song in the target language. Learn the chorus and video yourself singing it, or call a friend and sing it to them.
Investigate recipes online in the target language. Select a recipe and create a shopping list and convert the measurements to the Imperial System. If you can, make the dish for your family or friends.	Go to: Audio Lingua and select a recording in the target language. Create a list of key words from the recording and write a short summary of it.	Research school lunches in a target language country and compare and contrast them to school lunches in the U.S. Write an email in the target language to your teacher with your findings.	Investigate the life and works of a famous artist, writer, scientist, or celebrity from the target language culture. Create a visual presentation in the target language about the person you chose.
Read a book set in a country of your target language. Create a meme in the target language based on the book.	Take a virtual tour of an art museum in a country of the language you are studying. Recreate your favorite piece of art.	Research a monument or tourist site in a country from the target language and create a postcard about an imaginary visit you had. Then, mail/email it to your school.	Go online to your local public library and check out a children's ebook in the target language. Keep a journal of the books you read.
Watch the movie trailer (in the target language) for a movie you're interested in seeing. Write a critique of the movie based on the trailer in the target language.	Select a theme and choose 10 words each week in the target language. Create a set of flash cards and teach the words to a friend or relative.	Explore online the "benefits of being bilingual." Create your own infographic in English that summarizes what you learned.	Watch a TedTalk in your target language or one on "the benefits of learning another language." Discuss what you learned with a friend.
